PINE BLUFF, ARK., S-Ptember 20.—Additional details of the Calhoun county race war have just now (12:30 A. M.) reached here, being brought by a freight conductor on the Cotton Belt railway. His report is that three negroes and two white men were killed and several wounded.

A People's-party man (a white man) was at the head of the negroes, and it seems that the trouble has been brewing ever since the election until yesterday, when it came to a violent outbreak. There is no telegraph communication with the seat of war.

Latrie Rock, Ark. September 20.—A special to the Garde from Thornton, Ark., says: More reliable news has been received from the seat of war in Calhoun county. As reported on September 5th, last, one Unsil, a white man and ex-convict, with fort y-two negroes, murched to the polls with as many guns, cast their votes, and left for home.

That night they met in a church, alt armed. Jim Harris, a desperate negro, and leader of the gang, ordered one negro under arrest, claiming he had given their plans away to the whites. A gun was fired and a general rush was made for a negro preacher, who was preaching at the time, when he escaped through the window. The negro under arrest also escaped during the excitement. Both negroes went to the house of some friends, who protected them. The negro preacher made affidavits against eleven negroes, charging them with disturbing public worship. Warrants were issued and a posse was organized Sunday last to secure them. They soon discovered thirty negroes in an old house with five negroes on guard outside. The guards were commanded to surrender, when the uegroes opened fire er, when the uegroes opened fire beriff's posse. A general fight en-which two negroes were killed, inded, and several captured.

The negroes under arrest and the preacher who made the affidavits say the object of this organization of negroes was to kill Sheriff Tomlinson, Clerk Means, and fixe other prominent citizens. They also state that the organization extends all over the country. These negroes are still in hiding, making threats to kill every white man, woman, and child in the country before they stop. Both whites and negroes fore they stop. Both whites and negroes are greatly alarmed, and many negroes are leaving.

The negroes openly assert that Unsili is the cause of this trouble, he having encouraged the negroes in their bloothirsty onslaught upon the whites. Unsili is a Republican, and several years ago he led the negroes into a similar occurence in the county. Deputy-Sheriff Cone, with a posse of determined men, is in hot pursuit.

THE G. A. R. PARADE. About 50,000 Men in Line-Virginia ao North Carolina. (By telegraph to the Dispatch.

North Carolina.

(By seigraph to the Dispatch.)

Washington, September 20.—The head of the Grand Army of the Republic procession to-day swung into Fifteenth street past the Treasury Department at 10:30 A. M. and the last of it passed the same point at 6:15 P. M. The parade was led by the Old Guard Band, of this city, in a white and red uniform covered with a wilderness of sigrette gold cords and trimmings. Behind came the Old Guard trimmings. Behind came the Old Guard triself, in four companies of double columns, dressed in a neat uniform, with a headgear of black, waswing shakes. Then came the Albany City Band and Commander-in-Chief Palmer, with a mounted staff of 300 neen. Then came the Carter Eand, of Boston, leading the Sixth Massachusetts Regiment and the First Defenders of Pennsylvania, who, as the first comers in 1591, had the right of the line in precedence of all Grand Army posts.

Illinois headed the line of State posts. Next came the Wisconsin men, carrying at their head the stuffed skin of an eagle named "Old Abe." which was carried during the war by the Eighth infantry of that State. Pennsylvania came next, and was the banner State of the procession. There were above 10,000 of her veterans in line, and it took them an hour and a half to pass a given point. New York came next to Pennsylvavia in point of numbers, her delegation requiring just one hour to pass, and being probably 8,000 men strong. Onic tarned out 5,000 strong: Connecticut, 2,500; Massachusetts, 3,000; Kansas, 2,000; Missouri, 2,000; Kentucky, 1,500, and altogether about 50,000 men marched in parade. The Department of Virginis and North Carolina marched 700 men in the line. Department. Commander Edgar Allan wis attended by his mounted staff. The Farragut Post, of Portsmouth, and the Phil. Kearny Post, of Richmond, were at the head on either ride. The latter post is composed to the extent of about one half of colored men. There were thirty-two posts in this department, and a feature of the column was the appearance of a large number of was represented by a number of comfades led by Department-Commander J. de V. Hazard.

In every way the parade equalled the expectations of its projectors. More men were in line than at any other Grand Army parade. The appearance of the men was highly creditable to the organization. The crowd which witnessed the parade was very large, and the steadiness of its attention showed that, long as the parade was, it was full of interest. The bands aided in keeping up this interest. By actual count there were more than 250 of them, not counting the numerous mestances where a post was led by a drummer or by two or three of their compassion of the many of them are cloudy, was free from rain, pleasant, and just warm onough for comfort—in fact, that of a typical overcast Septomber day.

The streete are swarming with people to night. Washington is a goodly oity in size and population, but to night it finds its bounds too small for comfort and its residents find themselves in the minority. Just how many visitors were in the city no one can tell. The Baitimore and Ohio vallway people said that they had brought about 190,000, the Pennsylvania must have done as well, and in addition there were steamboan-leads of excursionists and thousands of people coming in by wagon and on horsebagets and afood on the roads leading into the city, so that an estimate was not possible with esfety.

his own successor under the title of dictator.

An exemplification of the effects of a "force bill" can be seen by this action on the part of Dictator Rodriguez.

A Concress of twenty-eight members is presumably elected by popular rote, but, by the way, regis; action and a free ballot are not quite as free as they are here without the operation of a force bill, and terture is not altogether unknown when it is necessary to secure the silence or the co-operation of some influential voter. The President of the republic is elected by the same body which elects the Congress. At the head of each province or State is a governor, a creature in the pay of the executive and generally a relation of that power. The inhediste agents of the governor (more relations) are placed at the head of each canton or district and are called "political chiefs," their name implying the character of their duties. Under these political chiefs and for the same territorial division there exists a municipality, charged with local interests, office-holders who look after the interests of the executive or party in power in the cities, towas, and villages of the country. Such a thing as a Democratic Congress and a Republicac President can't exist in Casta Rica. Every tonth man is said to be an office-holder or a political agent of the executive. When it is remembered that Rodriguez has wen over the army to his side and is the head of the priestly contingent which gets one-tenth of the revenue of the country and that he has the largest family connection of any man in Costa Rica, no one need be surprised to hear that this crafty lawyer wishes to save the expenses and the worry of an election by announcing himself as dictator.

Personally Rodriguez is a charming man and a splendtl entertainer; he is wealthy and a brilliant lawyer, but withal bigoted and arbitrary. He depends upon maintaining his position by meass of his family connection. The Costa Rican are generally known in Spanish America as "hermanitos," or little brothers and sisters—a name a YOUNG INGE DIES FROM THE EFFECT OF HIS WOUND Notes from Other Virginia Point

A telegram was received here this morning from Atlanta, Ga., announcing the death in that city last night of Mr. Walter death in that city last night of Mr. Walter E. Mr. Lundy was about thirty-six years of age and leaves a family. He travelled for f. C. Williams & Co. of Richmond, and had supervision of a large territory. His remains will be brought to Petersburg for interment.

STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS. Mr. William H. Brown, an old and honored citizen and for many years the agent of the Petersburg Railroad Company in this city, was stricken with paralysis at his home, on Harding street, this morning. His condition is believed to be hopeless. This is Mr. Brown's second stroke, from the first of which he had never recovered.

DAMAGED BY THE STORM. It is learned to-day that Dr. E. C. Powell, who resides near the Brunswick line in Dinwiddie county, about twenty-five miles from Petersburg, was a severe sufferer from the recent storm which passed through this section. His barn, stables, granary, and other out-buildings were blown to pieces and their contents scattered. Dr. Powell lost a large quantity of grain and provender.

DEATH OF YOUNG INCE.

Mr. Lucius H. Inge, the young man who was shot by the negro student, Robert McClanahan, on Old street Naturday night, died this afternoon about 1 o'clock. His sufferings were great, even though mollitied by opiates. An inquest was held upon the body at 5 o'clock P. M., when the evidence, agreeing in fact with that already published, was heard, and in accordance with which the jury rendered their verdect. The Coroner therefore issued warrants against both McClanahan and Robert Mathews, charging them with murder. The father of McClanahan, who is a government employee in Abingdon, arrived here this evening, and will make arrangements for his defence.

NORFOLK'S TRAMP CURE. Vigorous Measures in Force-Cotton Re

[Correspondence of the Richmond Discatch.]

Norden, September 20.—A number of the tramps captured by the police yesterday were hired out and carried off to the oyster-rocks to-day. Those who cannot be hired out are in jail on bread and water—among them a number of white men. The Police Justice hopes that this heroic process will force the vagrant element out of the city.

the Iniquity.

(For the Dispatch.)

First, The passage of this bill would so add to the strength of the General Government as to quickly and effectually destroy the power of the States. The tendency of the lest twenty-five years has been to add enormously to the power of the Federal Government. The work commenced by the late Chief-Justice John Marshall has been immensely added to by his successors in office. The legal-tender act, the annual appropriations, and the present pension laws are striking instances of the growth of concentrated power. Add to these the force bill, and the days of the American republic are numbered, and another will be added to the long list of the failures of republican governments in the world. This is no idle statement, but the careful result of a just and proper consideration of a bill, the most audacious and the most infamous of which history gives any record.

2. Would necessitate a standing army in the South in the time of profound peace, the result of which would be an immense expense and the most grievous taxation. The precence of such an army—for it would amount to this—we, all always be a serious menace to the very existence of the republic.

Mr. Minton Talbot returned yesterday from Europe.

Arrangements are being made by the Democratic Executive Committee of the county to hold a ratification meeting at public.

3. That provision of the law requiring domiciliary visits would be of the most aggravating and insulting character, and would soon create a host of spies and informers who would bring about a disturbance of the public peace in every town and hamlet in the South. The duties of the domiciliary visitors would be of the most diagraceful and revolting character, and would never be quietly submitted to be any free people. Great Bridge.

most disgraceful and 'revolting character, and would never be quietly submitted to by any free people.

A STRIDE TOWARDS MONABCHY.

4. The appointment of the chief supervisors for life is not only wrong and uprepablican in principle but it is a long stride towards monarchy and insures the supremacy of the Republican party, which is beyond all question a bitterly sectional party, absolutely incapable of carrying on the government with justice to the people of the South. It is one of the worst features of the bill.

5. Only persons who can vote for members of the different State legislatures can vote for members of Congress. Now, under the "force bill" officers of the Federal Government will decide who shall vote, and thus they will invade the prevince of State authority and practically they will control all State elections. This puts an end to State severeignty and eventually will operate as badly in the North and West as ut the South, because it is subversive of the plainest principles of the Constitution.

subversive of the plainest principles of the Constitution.

6. Supervisors may be appointed on the Fequest of any one hundred persons in a city of twenty thousand inhabitants, or of fifty persons in any county. This is a device by which a ring will be put in the nose offevery respectable man, to be pulled at the pleasure of fifty negroes or fifty mean and unprincipled white men. Comment is unnecessary upon so infamous a proposition.

7. The supervisors have the right to make a State officer strike off any name on the register they choose, and they have unrestricted access to all books of registration.

ARMED DEFUTY MARSHALS.

8. In their house-to-house canvass they have the right to carry with them armed deputy marshals and as many as they deem proper. This provision alone converts free elections into a travesty and a farce, and strikes at the very basis of free institutions.

9. The Circuit Court of the United States of America can force State officers to rectify and change whall it declares to be error in the official count, thus making it the election of the court, and not the people. For the last two menths the City Council has been without a president. When Captain T. J. Talbott resigned Mr. Schoolfield and Mr. Dudley were brought forward by their friends, and the first ballot showed a deadlock, which has never been broken. Another effort was made to day to get an election, but twenty-seven ballots were taken with the same result.

it the election of the court, and not the people.

10. Under this bill State officers can be punished for a violation of State laws by the Federal Government. This is tyranny and an infamous usurpation of the rights of the States in its worst possible form.

11. If a State officer, in what he considers the proper exercise of his duty, refuses to receive a ballot the Federal officer can receive and deposit it after he has ordered it to be done and the State officer has declined. This is a fitting climax to such a bill.

Such in brief are the chief provisions of "the force bill." It was and is expestly advocated by Benjamin Harrison, and it has received the outright and unqualified sanction of the recent Republican National Convention. If the Republican Succeed in the present canvass it will almost inevitably become a law. The gravity of the situation, so far as the South is concerned, cannot well be overestimated.

gravity of the situation, so far as the South is concerned, cannot well be overestimated.

However desirable it may seem to be to many people to turn the Federal Treasury into a loan-office for the purpose of making advancements to farmers on their crops, the effort is fraught with grave danger at the present time, for every vote in Virginia for the People's party at the ensuing election is half a vote for the Republicans. I do not mean to belittle or abuse or underrate the People's party, for it embraces in its vanks many good and true but misguided men.

THEY MEAN WELL.

They have grissances and they mean well. I sympathize with them in many of their aims and objects, notably the free coinage of silver, but they have taken a most dangerous method to accomplish their purposes.

Economical questions, important as they undoubtedly are, are always secondary to the preservation of our liberties and the maintenance of our local self-government. No good citizen of any party ought ever to east a vote which imperiis the liberty of his country. And yet that is what many of the People's party are going to do. A calm and thoughtful consideration of the force till ought to make them recoil with horror at the very ides of voting against the Democratic party, in the coming election. this county, now a prominent railroad official located at Central, S.
